ss—Pots are still held at $4.31‡, and pearls at $4.75.

There is very little doing in either description.

wax—Prime southern yellow sells as wanted, for here.

29; a 30c.

Biradstoffs—No change in flour. Genesee is firm at $4.75. Wheat of the same kind is held at $1.09.

Coffor—The sales to-day are about 2,000 bales. Some concession having been made by holders, a few orders were executed. The market, however, presents decidedly a heavy appearance.

HAY—Common qualities of North River bale sells for city consumption at 35 a 374c. The receipts down the river continue only to a moderate extent.

ver continue only to a moderate extent.

Savannah, May 18.—Our market opened on Friday last with a moderate demand, and the sales were limited, sellers looking forward to the arrival of the steamer of the 19th ult. Intelligence by her reached us on Saturday, and being generally considered more favorable than was expected, they had but little influence on our market. Buyers, however, demanded a further concession from holders, which the latter were generally unwilling to submit to, and the transactions during the week have been limited, the sales reaching only about 3 470 bales, of which 3.344 were upland. Quotations—Inferior, 5½ a 5½ ordinary, 5½ a 6; middling, 6½ a 7½ fair, 5½ a 7½ fair, 7½ a 7½; tully fair, 7½ a 7½; good fair, 7½ prime, none.

Monick, May 15.—Sales have been light to-day, and generally in small parcels, at about 5½ for middlings. The market is too unsettled, however, to attempt quotations.

New Onleans, May 15.—A large portion of the business has been on English account, though buyers for France, Spain and the North of Europe, have all been operating. Considerable anxiety prevails to learn the nature of the commercial advices of the 19th ult, per steamer Hibernia, which are past due, and it is very probable that the inactivity in the market is in some degree to be attributed to their non-arrival. The stock of cotton in port is still large for the season, though in consequence of the moderate receipts of late, and the heavy clearances, it is fast decreasing. We notice the sales of the three days, which amount to 6,000 bales.

SAILS ON FRIDAY NEXT, the 24th of SAILS ON SAILS ON SAILS ON FRIDAY SAILS SA

BY THE SOUTHERN MAIL.

Spondence of the Herald. | WASHINGTON, 22d May, 1844.

Last night there was a large and elegant party at Mrs. Ex-President Madison's, attended by the Secretaries of State, and of the Navy, Postmester-General, and Attorney General, the late Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Spencer, many of the Diplo-matic corps; Mr. and Mrs. Barrow, both fine specimens of Americanism, lately returned from his mission to Portugal; several members of Congress; many ladies; and altogether a very distinguished assemblage, who were elegantly entertained with the best of viands, old wines, the fruits of the season, and all other physical, as well as moral attractions of the excellent hostess.

In the course of the evening, the following pison, and all other physical, as well as moral attractions of the excellent hostess.

In the course of the evening, the following piquant morceau of conversation occurred between the British Minister and the Hon. Charles J. Ingersoll, who with his brother, Joseph R., were also present.

A gentleman of Washington, formerly American Secretary of Legation at Mexico, was describing in glowing terms to Mr. Pakenham the beauty of a lady of New York, who, he said, was one of the most splendid women he had ever seen—so much so that she reminded him of what he supposed a queen might or ought to be. "She makes one think," said he, "of such a magnificent creature as Queen Zenobia." "But," said Mr. C. J. Ingersoll, "What was her Majesty, Queen Zenobia's, color? Might it not have been the subject of an animated correspondence between Mr. Pakenham and Mr. Calhoun?" "Yes," rejoined Mr. Pakenham, addressing himself to Mr. Ingersoll, "and you, perhaps, would have written a report upon it." Presently after, his Excellency added, "You bore very hard upon us in that Report." "Oh, no," said Mr. Ingersoll, "you must not think so." "Yes you did," repeated Mr. Pakenham, "you bore very hard upon us;" and then, according to our report of the conversation, it ended.

His Excellency, long accustomed to manage the Mexicans, is said to be very free in his colloquial commentaries upon the doings and sayings of members of the Cabinet and members of Congress. He may be a very profound diplomatist, but to all exterior appearances bothin person, and on paper, he is any thing else.

It is reported—and is very probably true—that the Pennsylvania delegation will reconstrained, on the ground of their instructions alone, to vote for Mr. Van Buren on the first ballot; but, should a two third vote be required, it is hardly possible for Mr. Van Buren to get the nomination on first ballot, and in that even the Pennsylvania delegation will reconstrained.

The city is swarming with delegates. S. B. P. S. A delegate who has just arrived in the city came dire speeches to-day in Secret Session, before the Senate. Mr. McDuffie is expected to follow. So far as one can judge the tide of opposition seems to set still stronger to-day against Van Buren than it has done. No farther news to-night. TWENTY-EIGHTH CONGRESS.

and an attempt made to postpone the consideration, of it.

Mr. McDuffie said, both political parties promised retrenchment, and if the majority determined to postpone it, he should call the ayes and noes, in order to see who they are who oppose retrenchment.

Mr. Barrow said the Committee on Military Affairs thought the bill ought not to pass. He said this was not a time to retrench. From the signs around us, he said, we might need not only an increase of the army, but an increase of their pay. (Alluding, I suppose, to prospective troubles possibly with Mexico or England.)

The yeas and nays were ordered on the indefinite postponement of the bill, and Mr. Barrow said it would be considered a test vote. The bill was postponed indefinitely—25 to 19. It was very nearly a party vote—the democrats generally in the negative.

A few private bills were then hastily passed, and the Senate went into Executive Session—Mr. Chostes having the floor on the subject of annexa-tion—closed doors.

The Navy Appropriation Bill—Dry Docks—Owen's Great Speech on Texas.

The House, for the whole of to-day, as well as yesterday, have been engaged in the discussion of the Navy Appropriation Bill in Committee of the Whole, and the House adjourned without coming to any decision thereon.

In the course of the debate, the Texas question was broached, incidentally, and Mr. Owen made a speech on it, which I enclose, and which has been universally admitted to be the great master effort of the Session. Senators and others came in to listen, and crowded round to congratulate him, and the galleries rung with applause when he closed. It has created a great sensation here.

The only other thing done has been the passing of a resolution ordering the Secretary of the Navy to go on and build a Dry Dock at Brooklyn immediately, on such plan as he may think proper.

The final vote on the Navy Bill will be taken tomorrow probably.

We shall probably have a wide discussion on morrow probably.

We shall probably have a wide discussion on Texas yet in the House.

More Rioters.—The Recorder's officers this morning arrested a young man living in Kensington, named Isaac Hare, who was one of the most active of the mob in the attack upon the houses of the Irish in Master street, Kensington, on Monday afternoon, the first day of the recent riots. He was held to bail by the Recorder in $5000. Officer Whisener, of the Recorder's office this morning also arrested in Southwark an oysterman named Thomas Gansey, on a charge of breaking into the parsonage at St. Augustine's Church, and stealing a Bible, a cassock, a table cloth, and several books. Gov. Bagby presented a resolution, that hereafter the Senate meet daily, at 11 o'clock, A. M. Lies on the table.

[Note.—Judge Collquit has just appeared in the gallery, attended by a bevy of very beautiful young ladies. The judges' taste is exquisite.

Senator Whith has also just escorted several very, amiable ladies into the gallery.

Judge Huntington is also doing the polite to another young lady in the gallery, with whom he is evidently pleased. The honorable Senator's taste is fully equal to Judge Colquitt's.

The Hon. John Wentworth is also in the gallery; but I regret to say, that instead of smiling upon the ladies, he is patronizing one of the Baltimore delegates. John must pay more attention to poetry and other fine arts.

Senator Choate, who is all poetry, is also enchanting the willing ears of half a dozen pretty ladies in another quarter of the gallery. Anon, he leaves them in the charge of the Hon. Hamilton Fish, who evidently admires the ladies quite as much as they did Mr. Choate's soft eloquence.

Mr. Dow, the polite door keeper of the House, has also made his appearance in the gallery, where he is alternately whispering tender democratic poetry to a magnificent woman on his left, and splitting the sides of a knot of delegates on his right, with
